Stirrup Friendly!

RANCHERS are the traditional style upland boot, preferred by bowhunters for its ground sensing abilities, while farmers and ranchers prize the self-cleaning nature of the Tractor Tread outsole. Comfort rated to zero degrees (F) due to the quilted three layer removable liners made with a tough wicking synthetic layer, and 400 grams of Thinsulate Ultra Insulation for warmth without the bulk, as well as 3mm wool felt.

If you are tired of having cold feet in the stirrups, the new Kenetrek COWBOY is the perfect boot for riding on cold fall mornings. The removable 6 mm combination liners provide just enough insulation to be comfortable in the cold, but not too bulky to walk in. The Cowboy outsole slips in and out of standard size stirrups with ease, but still provides excellent traction in snow or mud. They even have a spur shelf at the heel to keep spurs from sliding down.
